It is indeed a great pleasure and privilege to notice the dawn of New Year and passing new day; ICAR-NIVEDI carries on its mission of conducting research on epidemiology, forecasting of Livestock diseases and disseminating the developed technologies to the farmers. Commemorating the first year in the new facility at Yelahanka, Institute celebrated inauguration day on 8th January, 2016 with a cherishing memories. One more feather added to the cap of our Institute by laying foundation stone for Training cum Farmer's hostel by Dr. Trilochan Mohapatra, Secretary DARE and DG, ICAR in the presence of other dignitaries. Hearty Congratulations to our beloved Dr. B. R. Shome, Principal Scientist, ICAR-NIVEDI for becoming Director (Acting), ICAR-NIVEDI on 1st January, 2016.

Foundation Stone laying Ceremony

Hon'ble Dr. Trilochan Mohapatra, Secretary, DARE and Director General, ICAR laid the Foundation stone for the Training cum Farmers Hostel of ICAR-NIVEDI, Bengaluru on 19th May, 2016. Dr. H. Rahman, DDG (AS), Dr. A.K. Srivatsava, Director, ICAR-NDRI, Dr. Raghavendra Bhatta, Director, ICAR-NIANP and Dr. A. Sanyal, Joint Director, ICAR-IVRI, Bengaluru Campus were present. The Secretary, DARE and Director General, ICAR interacted with scientists, research staff and administrative staff of ICAR Institutes on the occasion. In his address, Dr. Mohapatra urged scientists to carry out research in key areas for augmenting the livelihood and welfare of the farmers. He further emphasized that the young scientists should have open mind to work towards the goal in a multidisciplinary team so as to contribute to the country either in the form of cost saving technologies or scientific advancements. He also congratulated the recipients of prestigious DBT-Biotech Product and Process Development and Commercialization Award 2016 for developing an innovative diagnostics technology for serosurveillance of brucellosis in India. Further, he commended the functioning of the "state of art Bio-Safety Laboratory (BSL)-2 facility" at the Institute. He also released the first issue of "Pashu Prahari", the Rajbhasha magazine of the Institute. Dr. H. Rahman, DDG (Animal Science) congratulated the DBT awardees for the achievement and appreciated the efforts of the Scientists of ICAR-NIVEDI.

The DBT sponsored Biotech product and process development and commercialization award 2016 was conferred by His Excellency Shri Pranab Mukherjee, Hon'ble President of India to team of scientists led by Dr. Rajeswari Shome, Dr. B.R. Shome, Ms. Triveni. K and Dr. H. Rahman in recognition of their work on Development of indigenous affordable diagnostics for serosurveillance of brucellosis for livestock in India. Brucellosis in livestock in India is responsible for a median loss of US $ 3.4 billion/ annum (INR 22,554 crores) and a well-known zoonotic disease. The number of Institutions in the country were procuring imported ELISA kits for surveillance of brucellosis. Dependence on imported kits had direct bearing on cost of screening and diagnosis and its impact on national exchequer. The surveillance tests which are cost effective and indigenously developed were not available in India. The necessity was felt to develop an universal sero-screening test using Protein-G HRP conjugate which can bind to many mammalian species IgG since brucellosis is multiple species disease, which infect bovines, swine, small ruminants, horses, camel, mithun and yak livestock species. The iELISA diagnostic kit was standardized based on the smooth lipopolysaccharide antigen (instead of crude antigen) which helps to detect antibodies against smooth Brucella species such as Brucella abortus, B. melitensis and B. suis. The , evaluated and validated kit showed 98% and 92% sensitivity and 95% and 98% specificity in cattle and buffalo respectively, made the kits very popular in the country and a patent was filled (patent application No 5031/CHE/2013).
